The Varsity Field Hockey team fundraises for breast cancer
With rival school Grosse Pointe South

Field Hockey season is at its peak when fall starts to roll in. With October being Cancer Awareness month, it gave the perfect opportunity for the Varsity Field Hockey Team to hold a Cancer Fundraiser game with South to raise awareness. "Every year in field hockey we try to do a cancer game or raise cancer awareness, which is themed with our pink out games. We fundraise and bring a bunch of community members together, both North and South to raise money for St. Jude's Hospital, and all the money from the tickets went there," Senior Bella Yoakam said. The game, even though it was against our hometown rival team, Grosse Pointe South, brought everyone together in more than one way. "As a team, we all picked someone to play for who has had cancer and played in honor of them to support the cause. We even had shirts specifically for the cancer game and wore pink eye black as well as sprayed our hair pink. We had a super fun time supporting the cause this year," said senior Grace Lemanski. Showing their support for the cause also brought the team closer together as a whole. "I think we just kept fighting hard. It was tied one to one at the end, but we never wanted to give up. Everyone, even the people who came from JV, worked super well together. It was never just like 'we're going to give in' we kept fighting until the end, even though we didn't win. It was just a really strong effort overall," said senior Sophia Borowski. Even though the game ended in a tie, it didn't matter because it brought the community together to support and raise awareness for cancer.

1. Defensive Ready Senior Gabby Brumme stands in goal getting ready for a defensive corner. "I like this position because I am able to be aggressive and help out my teammates. I try to get the ball out and pass it so that we are able to take it back up the field for a goal," Brumme said. Though they still gave it their all, Gabby is still proud of her teammates and happy the team didn't win. 2. Down But Not Out Eager and determined to score, junior Stephanie Karoutsos charges down the field, dodging and weaving around Country Day defense-men. "Overall it was a really good game, I feel like everybody played to their best potential," Karoutsos said. Even though they didn't come out on top, the team was committed to recovering from the loss and were determined to get better.

3. Let's Get It Started Senior Lucy Driscoll hypes up her teammates as they are about to take the field at one of their games during her last season on the Field Hockey team. "I usually give a little pep-talk to everybody, or we send a group text in our group chat, and then we listen to music while we're warming up," Driscoll said. Though she is upset she won't see her teammates as often as she would like, she will miss all the pasta parties and the connections she has made during her 4 years on the team. 4. Wide Open Senior Crace Colombo sprints alongside her teammate Katherine Listman trying to get open for a pass and take it upfield for a goal. "I think we could have communicated more and passed the ball more, but I think that overall we did a good job," Colombo said. Even though they didn't win this game, each and every one of them played their best and put everything in. 5. Carry to the End With speed and fast agility, Senior Katherine Listman dodges opponents from Country Day high school and carries the ball for a goal. "A good field hockey player has a feel for the game, of when to pass, when to dribble, and when to go for the shot," Listman said. The teammates hype each other up before a game and reflect on the losses, to perform their best.
